Financial Web Services

In today's fast changing global economy, it is critical for businesses to access up-to-date financial market data in order to respond quickly and competitively to market events. Until now, businesses have been faced with the challenges of sourcing global market data that is affordable and can be easily integrated into corporate applications.

Xignite answers that challenge by providing instant access to the latest financial market data through web services—which you can integrate in minutes into your mission-critical corporate applications. By empowering employees with the right information and bringing accuracy to your business processes, Xignite Web Services help you make your business more agile, more competitive and more cost-efficient in a fast-changing global environment.

How It Works

Xignite Web Services are internet feeds you can use to power Web 2.0 applications, portals, spreadsheets, and wireless devices alike:

Since data is available on-demand, you no longer need to waste time and money setting up infrastructure.

By using SOA standards like SOAP and REST, developers can pull what they need in minutes instead of weeks.

Choose from our pay-as-you-go subscription models, and ensure you only pay for the data you need and use.

One-Minute Integration®

Xignite Web Services are so simple you only need one minute and three lines of code to integrate them with your applications. For a demo, see www.xignite.com/oneminute.
